Ambition

Ambitious challenges are the driving force behind Jawor-Parkiet. For years, we have set ourselves high goals, we combine many years of experience in the production of wooden floors with innovation. We gratefully use what is the best in Poland - good craftsmanship and high-quality raw material. However, we are aware that there is no change, there is no development. That is why our floors are made in one of the most modern machine parks in the industry.

The roots of the company Jawor-Parkiet are Warmia and Mazury. This is also where we still have our head office, where we take care of the constant modernisation of production processes, multi-level quality control and orders produced on time. We take care of Polish tradition, but it is our wide horizon that gives us a chance for dynamic development. Hardwood floors from Nowe Miasto Lubawskie decorate interiors of houses all over the world - in Italy, China, Georgia or Canada, among others. We proudly expose our origins there and take care of the development of our brand.

Multi-layered flooring

The right choice for many years

Wooden floorboards and parquet flooring have adorned Polish houses for generations. They are captivating thanks to their natural beauty and tempting due to their innovative functionality. However, choosing the right flooring is an important decision for many years. Finished two-layer wooden flooring, such as FertigDeska or FertigParkiet, with the top layer being up to 6 mm thick, is the right solution that can meet the expectations of the most demanding users. Thanks to this feature, this type of flooring has been extremely popular among customers for years.

Wooden flooring and underfloor heating

- a couple of things that you should keep in mind

Wooden flooring is a very durable, ecological, and hygroscopic material. Its aesthetic values and a wide range of decors and formats, as well as functional advantages, make it the best choice.

As a natural raw material, wood is an excellent solution for individuals suffering from allergies. It is easy to keep it clean as it does not accumulate dust. It is also pleasant to the touch, warm and delicate. Additionally, it does not cause any noise and, when maintained properly, it will serve you for many years. Using wooden floorboards and parquet over underfloor heating is becoming an increasingly popular solution.

Wooden flooring is a reasonable and noteworthy alternative to floor tiles, panels, or carpets. You should remember that Jawor-Parkiet floors with a two-layer structure are recommended for use with underfloor heating.

In pursuit of excellence, since 1991

Our story began in Nowe Miasto Lubawskie — a place where nature has always set the rhythm of work, and respect for raw materials forms the foundation of every decision. From a family-run workshop producing wooden floor mosaics to the birth of a brand built on craftsmanship and quality, which today holds an undisputed leading position in the Polish wooden flooring market. 35 years of Jawor-Parkiet is the story of people who believe in the value of work carried out with passion, responsibility, and respect for nature.

LUXURY

new dimension of floor design

ZERO WASTE

collection

Wooden flooring not only for ECO freaks

Zero Waste is a form of a certain manifesto and a message to the customer - the greatest value of wood flooring lies in its natural beauty. This collection is a return to nature. It exposes the imperfections of wood and transforms the natural flaws of the raw material into its advantages.

The 21st century means greater acceptance in fashion and design, and also concern for the world around us and a move away from idealized beauty. The design turns to nature's colours, deliberately replacing unwarranted consumerism with recycled things and conscious choice of biodegradable, long-lasting and planet-friendly products.

The collection of two-layer wooden floors called Zero Waste was created not only for eco freaks, but first of all for conscious customers who have the good of the planet in mind and care about sustainable development, thinking about future generations. They are convinced that the consumerist approach to life must have an end because the earth's resources are not unlimited.

The colours of elements

The colours in the collection are inspired by the colours of nature and the elements. It features soft beiges, natural and deep browns, as well as subdued white.

3 types of aging

The Forest Legend collection owes its unique character to such aging processes as: obtaining saw marks perpendicular to the grain of the board, planing, embossing, as well as brushing, oil-waxing and four-sided bevelling. Thanks to these treatments, we accelerate the natural aging process of wood, obtaining a unique texture on the surface of the oak boards.

VINTAGE

series

Vintage Series

— individualism and courage

Contemporary design is a search for harmony. Surrounding ourselves with objects, colors, and textures that reflect our personality. For this purpose, we mix styles, combine accessories, and furniture from different eras. We always look for solutions that are surprising and completely different from any other. Because our home should express us. Instead of choosing safe solutions, we are more willing to experiment in order to create interiors in which we will feel good and comfortable. Our interiors are supposed to create complete unity with their users.

This is why we created the Vintage Series. Each of the decors consists of three types of elements with a different surface finish structure, ranging from brushing and original planing to delicate saw marks. Playing with these textures and contrasting unique color differences allows us to achieve a unique effect. Thanks to the use of diverse designs in one decor, products from the Vintage Series do not look good only on the floor. They are more often used on walls, ceilings, and as headboards.

The Vintage collection is ideal for brave and imaginative people looking for unusual arrangement combinations. This flooring makes it possible for you to combine the old and the new and mix glass with brick and steel. We use light to highlight the most interesting aspects of these materials and textures.

Available in following dimensions:

length: 1200 mm

width: 70 mm

thickness: 13 mm

The Vintage Series collection received a reward in the competition of the Marshal's Office of the Warmian-Masurian region "Sails Warmia and Mazury". The idea of the competition is to identify and promotion of the best enterprises, products, services and promotional projects in the region.

What makes Vintage Series special?

Each decor consists of elements with three different types of surface finishes:

V4 bevelling

It consists in creating a gentle cut in all four edges of a floorboard. It emphasizes the shape of the boards and visually exposes their individual elements.

4 layers of wax-oil

Oil-wax penetrates the structure of the wood, emphasizing its natural beauty and protecting the floor at the same time.

Brushing

Precise brushing of the soft parts of the grain emphasizing the natural patterns of wood and providing the effect of delicate floor aging.

Planing

Our original method of planing the surface gives it a slightly rustic character. This process is intended to emphasize the natural structure of wood.

Gentle transverse saw marks

Subtle and perpendicular saw marks created toward the edge of the cut on the surface. They create an irregular structure, giving the floor an intriguingly raw character.

A creative mix of all the above elements creates a uniquely composed one two-layer oak floor.

finishes: 4 layers of oil-wax, V4 bevelling, brushing, planning, gentle transverse saw marks, underfloor heating

Oak Vintage 1940's Black on Fire

Expressive like Rita Hayworth as a pin-up girl, yet elegant as Katharine Hepburn in Woman of the Year. Black on Fire is an aesthetic mix of dark brown and black, with touches of flaming brown accents. A floor in this colour is an interesting proposition for spacious interiors, where it will be well composed with bright furniture and soft-to-touch accessories.

On a dark, almost black surface, the light refracts forming subtle reflections in the saw marks. There we will see some warm shades of brown and chestnut with hints of copper. Depending on the accessories used, this floor will be sensual like Merlin Monroe's curves or minimalist like Audrey Hepburn's styling.

Oak Vintage 1960's Touch of Gray

A multi-dimensional floor, as was the femininity of the 60s, in which geometric patterns in Yves Saint Laurent's designs contrasted with the Jackie Kennedy's stylish suits. It is in vain to look for a uniform colour here. In this décor, beige colours are mixed with grey and sepia accents. It combines perfectly with raw interiors full of glass and metal and in loft-like arrangements.

Oak Vintage 1970's Dusty Brown

Freedom of style and nonchalance are the hallmarks of this period. Such is the Vintage Series in Dusty Brown shade. In this décor brown and grey sparkle with many shades. It allows for greater flexibility in the application and own interpretation of colours. Like the disco music of the 70s and Jane Birkin styling. This floor can be used both in classic, as well as boho and eclectic style interiors.

Oak Vintage 1980's Mocca Cherry

This floor is closer to the world of pop culture trends of the 80s than to the stagnation in the Polish design. Warm brown tones are the base colour of this décor. They are broken with shades of coffee and milk chocolate, with a pinch of gray. This solution is uncompromising, bold and modern like Madonna's music. This décor is dedicated to people with vivid imagination, looking for unobvious combinations of arrangements.

French herringbone Chevron

Louvre – one of the world's largest museums. The collection, which captures the essence of French history, is viewed against the backdrop of decorative interiors which bring all the 350 collection pieces together to make a harmonious whole. Richly ornamented ceilings and columns are breathtaking and the materials used only add to the loftiness of the space.

This is where the popularity of the hardwood flooring laid in the symmetrical pattern known as chevron first began. We can admire the floor in the Louvre still today. Museum visitors first see it in the main hall. Further on, in the rooms of the Grande Galerie covering more than 3000 square meters, they experience the same effect that French aristocrats admired a few centuries ago. Refined elegance, exclusiveness and wealth.

It is a ready-made floor with two-layer construction, which not only makes the floor suitable for installation on floor heating, but also ensures great resistance to deformation.

Chevron - pay a visit to a french castle.

The wooden, french herringbone-patterned floor gained its popularity among french kings and nobility as early as in the 16th century. The flooring captivated with its precise, symmetrical pattern and added sophisticated elegance to interiors. Now, it has returned with a more modern and functional twist – a finished Chevron floor. Short sides of individual boards are cut at a 45-degree angle, thus forming a shape of an arrowhead. Cutting boards during the production process shortens fitting and guarantees high-quality installation of the complicated pattern, which would be very difficult if each board were cut separately. A Chevron floor does not require sanding, filling or lacquering and it is ready to use right after installation.

Whoever discovers the charms of Italy will forever remain bound to this country. From the sandy beaches of the divine Sardinia, the sun-scorched olive groves of Tuscany, and Italy's volcanic islands, to the rugged, rocky slopes of the Alps, Italian landscapes have been an inspiration for centuries. They inspired us to create Color Inspiration – a palette of decors including raw oak with white and gray shades as well as a mixture of deep browns and black.

Photographs brought from holidays will make you smile for years. They are your memories of unforgettable moments, flavors, and people you met while being there. They enable us to remember the aroma of slowly sipped espresso in a small cafe on Lake Garda or the best Amarone in Venice. Just like these travel photos, oak flooring in its original colors brings back the best moments of your life, keeping the stories of all the household members on the surface.

HYBRID FINISH

FUSION[®]
HYBRID

If you are about to choose a hardwood floor, you must ask yourself the fundamental question: lacquer or oil-wax finish?

A unique blend of oil-wax and lacquer, the new, revolutionary Fusion Hybrid coating is the answer to all these needs. The coating builds on the best qualities of both formulas used so far to ensure even better protection of hardwood floors during production.

Thanks to the latest technology, 6 times more coating can be applied to the surface compared to floor finished with standard oil-wax. The manufacturer's studies have shown that Fusion Hybrid is 14 times more resistant to abrasive wear than the regular oil-wax coating, offering improved mechanical damage durability.

The new coating is eco-friendly and does not contain any solvents or harmful substances, which makes it safe for persons with allergies, children and pets. A unique super-matt hybrid finish, open resistance preserves the natural qualities of a wooden surface – penetrating the surface of the wood brings out its natural qualities.

In harmony with nature

Surrounded with lush green forests and clean lakes we are close to nature every day. It inspires us to work. The respect for natural environment and requirements related to its protection are reflected in each stage of the floors production.

Raw material only from a trusted source

Keeping in mind the meaning of wood in the environment, we treat it with due respect. The raw material, from which we produce our floors, is almost exclusively the wood from Polish forests, where the management is conducted with preserving the constancy of ecosystems, its balanced development and environmental protection. The rest of the materials used to make our floors are exotic species from proven sources.

Ecology confirmed by certificates

The confirmation of our production standards according to the highest world norms of the responsible forest management is the FSC® certificate (Forest Stewardship Council). It is the first and currently the most popular global certification system of forests and wooden products. It is awarded only for the highest quality products that meet the strict standards.

Naturally from start to finish

We see the environmental concern not only as a choice of the right wood, but also an adequate protection of the finished product. For this purpose we only use lacquers and oils that do not contain solvents or harmful substances. Raw material is always processed to the end. In the highpressure compression of oak and ash sawdust the Premium Pellets and PDJ briquette are formed - our environmentally friendly alternatives to firewood.

A coating tailored to your needs

Wooden floors will decorate the interior of our house for many years. The key factor when it comes to use and day to day care is the choice of a coating, which we make already at the purchasing stage. So far the choice has been made by customers between eight layers of UV lacquer or four layers of natural oil-wax coating. In 2021, Jawor-Parquet has introduced a revolutionary coating called Fusion Hybrid, which combines the features of oil-wax and lacquer, is extremely functional and allows a unique way of colouring the wood. Each wood surface treatment offers effective protection and makes the floor exceptionally durable. What are the differences between these coatings and which is the most suitable for you?

Lacquer

Lacquer will be the right choice for those who appreciate comfort and do not want to pay much attention to regular floor maintenance. This coating is extremely practical for everyday use and is easy to clean. Traditional lacquering results in a thin protective layer on the wood surface, however, it does not allow for spot repairs. It protects perfectly, while ensuring a beautiful and chic appearance.

Oil-wax

Oil-wax is a mixture of natural oils and liquid wax. Wood surface is being saturated for long lasting protection, which subtly emphasises the structure and colour of the wood and exposes its natural drawing. An unquestionable advantage of oil-wax is the possibility of spot renovation, therefore it is particularly recommended for use in interiors where the floor is more vulnerable to minor damage.

Oil-wax does not close the wood pores, therefore creates a favourable microclimate in the house. Composed exclusively from natural ingredients, it is an ideal solution for people who suffer from allergies.

Fusion Hybrid

Fusion Hybrid combines the best features of both formulas to provide maximum functionality and even better protection during production process. The new Fusion Hybrid is characterised by its increased resistance to mechanical damage as well as and the possibility of surface spot renovation.

The coating is ultra-matte, open-pore and allows to preserve natural advantages of the natural qualities of the wooden surface - by penetrating the structure of the wood, it exposes the natural grain of the wood.

It is ecological, free from solvents and harmful substances, therefore allergy- and child-friendly and safe for animals. It has been tested and certified for slipperiness and emissions of volatile organic compounds (VOC).
